

WORST BATTLE EVER FOUGHT

Russians and Japs Are Battling for Their Existence Near Liaoyang.

OFFICIAL REPORT IS MADE TODAY

The Battle of Yesterday Was the Most Severe of Any Fought During the Present Year—Many Thousands Killed and Wounded.

(Special by Scripps-McLain.)

St. Petersburg, Aug. 31.—Gen. Sakharoff's reports of yesterday's battle are as follows: "From five in the morning until into the evening the Japanese attacked our front positions before Liaoyang and on the left bank of the Tai Tsho river, with both the artillery and rifle fire being intense. The main attack was directed against the center positions on the right flank but numerous attacks and bayonet encounters ensued. Some positions were taken by the Japanese, but at the end of the battle were re-occupied by the Russians. Our batteries did effective work. The Japanese attempted to turn our left flank, but the reserves compelled them to retire. The spirit of the troops was excellent. Our casualties were considerable. According to the number of wounds dressed they will reach about 3,000. The Japanese losses must have been heavy."

Another Report
The correspondent of the Russ in Liaoyang reports that in yesterday's fight four Japanese batteries were silenced, while twelve other guns were destroyed. Gen. Marton was wounded, but continued fighting in the line.

Still One More
Tokio, Aug. 31.—It is reported here the Japanese have obtained a footing within the inside of the outskirts of Liaoyang. Reinforcements to the Japanese are continually arriving.

Japs Hear News of Victory
Tokio, Aug. 31.—The war-office is in receipt of an official report from the Japanese headquarters outside of Liaoyang. The report, which was made public soon after it reached the authorities, has created joyous excitement in every quarter of the capital, as it brings news of the continued advance of the troops upon the city. Not even the fact that the report states that casualties on the evening of the 27th inst. had reached 2,000 seems to have a dampening effect upon the exultation of the populace.

Another feature of the report which is being greeted with jubilation is the news of the evacuation by the Russians of Anshantien and the demoralizing effect which this defeat had upon the enemy. It is confidently predicted here that no matter how strongly Liaoyang may have been fortified, the Russians will not be able to hold it. The report follows:

Report of Three Days' Fighting
The following engagements took place in the direction of Liaoyang: On Aug. 25 our first army commenced an attack on the enemy, who was strongly posted on steep mountain ridges twenty-three miles south of Liaoyang. The central column of our army made an attack upon the enemy during the night and after a bayonet charge our infantry succeeded in carrying the enemy's position on that side, but the enemy's right and left wings continued to offer desperate resistance.

Heavy Losses
St. Petersburg, Aug. 31.—Gen. Sakharoff has sent two reports from the front, admitting in one that the Russian losses were very heavy and reporting that Col. Pokotelo has been killed. The Japanese, he says, are still attacking.

The other messages read as follows:

"The Japanese are advancing on our whole front. The main attack is directed against the Russian center and right, where the losses are heaviest."

Last night the enemy placed numerous pieces of artillery in such positions as to command the whole Russian line.

"This morning a terrible artillery duel took place. The Japanese fire was concentrated on the Russian center."

"The opposing forces are now in extremely close proximity."

"The commander of one of the Russian brigades has been killed."

"On Aug. 26 severe fighting was resumed, but the enemy's resistance remained unabated. That night our column, after a sanguinary engagement, carried the enemy's left and captured their guns."

"On Aug. 27 our whole column resumed the attack and at sunset the entire line of the enemy's position fell into our hands. Our casualties are estimated at 2,000."

"At the same time our other armies marched to Anshantien, whence the enemy retired without resistance. Our main armies pursued the enemy, while some of our detachments intercepted them. The enemy thereupon fled toward Liaoyang in utter confusion, apparently suffering considerable damage from our fire. We also captured eight field guns, ammunition and many carts."

Four Hundred Guns in Action
San Francisco, Aug. 31.—Fighting has been continuous today to the south of Liaoyang and slowly but surely the Russian forces are being pushed back on the city itself. The Japanese artillery fire has been particularly strong and deadly. They have had not less than 400 guns in action and their practice has been so accurate that the Russians have not been able to withstand it, being driven from position to position by the awful hail of shrapnel and lyddite shells.

According to the latest advices received here there has been comparatively little infantry fighting, though at times, when it has been found necessary to use it, the Japanese soldiers have charged with their usual reckless gallantry and have met with their usual success in driving the heavier Russians before them.

BISHOP GEAY VISITS
POPE PIUS X. AT ROME

Premier Combes of France Suspends Churchmen's Pay for Going Counter to His Orders.

Rome, Aug. 31.—The pope received in private audience Monsignor Geay, bishop of Laval, France, who explained that now that France has severed her diplomatic relations with the Vatican he had no more reason to abide by Premier Combes' instructions not to obey his summons to Rome and had hurried to the Vatican, wishing to demonstrate that he is a victim of enthusiasts and that he can prove his innocence of the charges brought against him.

The bishop was deeply moved, tears flowing from his eyes. The pope kindly consoled and encouraged him, saying that if the charges were false he would have all the assistance necessary to prove himself innocent. Bishop Geay is one of the French bishops who were summoned to Rome by the Vatican for trial or punishment, against which the French cabinet strongly protested, claiming that the disciplining of bishops without first consulting the wishes of the government was against the terms of the concordat. The Vatican's perseverance in the stand it had taken led to the severance of diplomatic relations between France and the Vatican.

Bishop's Pay Is Stopped.

Laval, Aug. 31.—The action of Bishop Geay of Laval in going to Rome in spite of the counter orders of Premier Combes has resulted in the determination of the government to suspend the pay of the bishop.

WORKMAN STARTS
NOVEL LAW SUIT

Files Complaint Against the Knickerbocker Ice Company Through Secretary of State House.

(Special to The Gazette.)

Madison, Wis., Aug. 31.—Charles Lemmo, a workman who was employed by the Knickerbocker Ice Co., at Lake Geneva last winter and who was injured in the ice harvest, has filed complaint against the company with Secretary of State House, to bring an action for damages for personal injuries. He blames the corporation for providing him with poor tools and requiring too much work, so that he was injured, and he seeks to recover $1,000. The papers are filed with the secretary of state because the corporation is foreign to Wisconsin.

BOLD ROBBERY UP IN WYOMING

Trainmen Clubbed by Hold Up Men Who Then Loot the Safe of Thirteen Thousand.

(Special by Scripps-McLain.)
Cheyenne, Wyo., Aug. 31.—Three masked men held up an Oregon Short Line train near Kammerer, Wyo., late last night. They clubbed the trainmen and express messenger into helplessness, and then looted the safe. They escaped with thirteen thousand dollars. A posse is now in pursuit. The money was the regular shipment to pay the miners in that section.

NOT SO SERIOUS AS FIRST REPORTED

William Drummond, Who Was Injured in Madison Will Be at Work Again in a Few Days

Relatives of William Drummond, the Janesville young man who was injured in Madison last week Friday, have received word to the effect that he is getting along nicely and will be able to return to his work in a few days. While he received severe cuts on his head and chin his injuries are not of as serious a nature as was at first reported. He was hurled against a trolley pole while leaping from the platform of a street car.

PRINTERS ARE TO RUSH WORK

President's Speech Will Be Delivered to the Morning Papers on September 12.

Oyster Bay, Aug. 31.—The president's letter of acceptance was this morning given to a New York publishing house with orders to rush the printing and binding. The letter will be given to the morning papers and made public the morning of Sept. 12. The letter contains about 12,000 words. There were several callers at Sagamore Hill this morning. All the calls were of a social nature.

TODAY IS JANESVILLE DAY AT EVANSVILLE FAIR

Imperial Band Discourses Sweet Music Before Large Crowds This Afternoon.

Evansville is all excitement over their annual fair. Advice from there this morning show that the fair promises to be the greatest one ever held. Yesterday was children's day and the gate keepers had to work overtime to accommodate the crowd that visited the grounds. Today is Janesville day and many Janesville people have gone up to witness the racing and see the sights. The Imperial band is giving concerts all day and the music they are furnishing is delighting the crowds that are at the grounds. Three races this afternoon—the 2:25 trot and the 2:10 pace—some of the best horses in the country are creating considerable excitement. There are four hundred more entries this year than ever before and every stall and contrivance for housing exhibits is taxed to its limit.

MURDERER STILL REMAINS ALIVE

Madison Man Who Shot His Wife Has a Chance of Going to Prison Yet.

(Special to The Gazette.)
Madison, Wis., Aug. 31.—George Benway, who shot his wife and self with murder and suicidal intent Monday afternoon, has rallied wonderfully, notwithstanding the fact that he shot two bullets into his chest close to the heart and several blood vessels were severed. The doctors begin to think he may recover. The woman is alive and conscious. Her chances for recovery are today said to be good.

DESPERATE AT THE CONDITION

President Donnelly States He Will Take Stringent Measures to End Packers' Control.

CALLS OUT OTHER LINES OF WORK

Would Create a Meat Famine the Country Over and Thus Force Arbitration Upon the Packers at Once.

(Special by Scripps-McLain.)

Chicago, Aug. 31.—Realizing the life of the butchers' union was at stake unless more forceful blows were struck at the packers, and in accordance with the plan adopted yesterday to extend the strike, the union officials this morning called out the stockhandlers employed in the union stockyards and transit company to the number of 650. Of these 125 were special policemen. The remainder are employed in weighing, feeding and driving cattle. It is believed this walkout will seriously cripple the operation of the plants. Another blow was aimed at the packers this morning when President Donnelly announced he would today call out all the butchers and workmen in the independent plants. This move would bring on a meat famine and call the attention of the public to the seriousness of the situation. The strikers hope by this means to force intervention.

As a result of Donnelly's appeal the switchmen met this afternoon to vote on a sympathetic strike. The police at the yards have been increased today in anticipation of trouble. The reports from St. Paul, Omaha and Kansas City state the strike situation in those places is unchanged by Donnelly's order of a general strike in all allied trades, and independent plants.

STILL TIME TO SECURE VOTES

Gazette Exposition Contest Does Not Close Until Tonight at Ten O'clock.

Ten o'clock, tonight, ends the Gazette world's fair contest and closes one of the liveliest voting affairs ever held in the city. The standing of several of the candidates has been fairly close for some time past and hard work by each individual has marked the entire procedure. The wives, too, deserve much credit for the interest and activity they are showing; much good has been accomplished by them for their husbands. While the time is now short there still remains several hours before the close of the polls in which to secure new subscriptions. Some extra effort put in between now and this evening may turn the tide to the hustlers' advantage and be the means of securing the prize of a week's outing with out loss of time or expense to the world's fair. New paid in advance subscriptions can for one year, 3500 votes; for six months, 1500 votes; for 3 months, 650 votes; for one month, 200 votes. Each candidate is standing on his own effort and none of them have been or will be allowed to transfer his votes to another.

The standing of the various candidates at noon today was as follows: James Angell, F. J. Clifton, S. M. Fisher, H. L. Roberts, Chas. Gibson, Simpson Lawson, Carl Palmer, Wm Taylor, E. Ray Lloyd, Ed. Spaulding, J. C. Morris, George Nicholson, Frank Drew, John Kobel, Otto Burnett, George Ashley, Eugene Delisle, Her Sherwood, R. Feddersen, Will Kimball, John Kelly, B. Dunwiddie, Wm Brennan, Henry Young, John Baker.

While in the service, Mr. Ward has circled the globe and has found the life an interesting one.

HENRY DAVIS' ONLY SON LIES AT DEATH'S DOOR

Democratic Nominee Very Much Worried, as Victim Suffers from Malignant Typhoid Fever.

Elkins, W. Va., Aug. 31.—John J. Davis, only son of Democratic Nominee Henry Davis, is a patient in Davis' Memorial hospital. He was brought from New York suffering with typhoid fever, with which he was attacked while at the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Armistead, in Seagate.

He reached here in the private car Graceland, accompanied by his wife and children and Dr. Homer Glibney. The hospital physicians said he was in a critical condition. Senator Davis is very much worried, the death of his wife and daughter, Mrs. Brown, in 1902 being due to the same malady.

GAINING GROUND IN NORTHERN PART

La Follette Sentiment Seems To Be Dying Out Through Northern Tier of Counties.

According to Secretary Bentley of the republican state central committee the governor and his forces are daily losing ground in the northern portion of the state. He asserts that through Vilas, Marathon, Langlade, Lincoln, Oneida and Ashland counties the anti-third term sentiment has grown rapidly within the past few months and that not only business men but the farmers are turning from the governor. Rural communities are beginning to look for their interests and are anxiously waiting the decision of the supreme court. Postmaster General Payne, in an interview published in Chicago, expressed no doubt of a republican victory. Speaking of a political situation in Wisconsin he said that it would be difficult to make predictions as to the effect of the complications over the state ticket until the supreme court acts upon the petition for a writ to compel the recognition of the anti-La Follette ticket. "The writ is made returnable early next week," he said, "and an early decision is expected. The opinion in the state is quite general that the prayer of the republicans will be granted, but whatever may be the result of the suit it can have no adverse effect upon the electoral ticket. In any event, the state will give Roosevelt an overwhelming majority."

DIGGING MACHINE TO BE HERE TOMORROW

And Work of Laying Sewers Will Be on Full Blast Next Tuesday—M. J. Benson Arrives.

Contractor M. J. Benson of Chicago who is to lay the sewers in Janesville arrived in the city today and will be here from now on. He expected four car loads of pipe this afternoon but they had not arrived at three o'clock. "We will commence working full blast next Tuesday," he said this afternoon. "Our digging machine which enables us to proceed about 500 feet a day should be here from Waukegan tomorrow. With this machine we will need a force of about twenty men. Our first work will be done on South Main street."

CHURCH HELD A JUBILEE SERVICE

Watertown Methodists Rejoiced in the Raising of a Church Debt Yesterday.

Rev. E. S. McChesney, presiding elder of the Janesville district of the Methodist Episcopal church, was present at an interesting service at Watertown yesterday when the First M. E. church of that city commemorated the liquidation of the debt which has hung over the church for a long time.

Evil in Fretting.
The one reason why some women lose their beauty after marriage, for which they are not to blame, is that of unhappiness. The essential thing to a woman's beauty is happiness. A week's fretting will age her to an astonishing degree, while a real unhappiness robs cheek and lip of color, eyes of light and life, and destroys all the soft, rounded curves of winsome femininity.

STATE CROPS ARE NOW DOING NICELY

REPORTS FROM ALL PARTS SHOW PROGRESS.

GOVERNMENT REPORT GOOD

The General Outlook for Good Crops and Good Prices is Bright.

Practically no rain fell during the week, and as the rains which occurred the latter part of last week were not general, the soil in many localities is becoming dry, says Director Wilson. In those localities where the rains occurred growing crops are much improved, pastures revived, and the soil put in good condition for plowing. The temperature conditions during the week were mainly favorable for the maturity of the remaining crops, although the nights were too cool for the best results. No frosts of any consequence were reported during the week.

Corn made substantial advancement during the week, but is generally about two weeks behind the average condition at this date. While the temperature during the day has been sufficiently high to advance the crop, the cold nights have militated against rapid growth. The crop is in good condition, and with favorable weather would advance rapidly. In the southern counties early plantings would mature in about three weeks, while in the central and northern sections a month of good weather is needed to place the crop out of the way of frost. Threshing is nearing completion and fall plowing has commenced. The soil in many localities is, however, too dry to plow. A small acreage of rye was sown during the week.

The weather during the week has been favorable for potatoes and a large crop of excellent quality now seems assured. There is some complaint of rot, but little of blight. Buckwheat has made rapid advancement and gives promise of a good crop, where not injured by the frost. Sugar beets are in excellent condition and promise a large yield of excellent quality. In those sections that received the rains of last week pastures are in good condition, elsewhere short. Apples are generally a satisfactory crop of good quality. Cranberries are about ready for picking. The crop was badly damaged by frost.

Northwest Estimates Reduced

From reports received by the Minneapolis Record it is found that the damage to wheat in the three northwestern states amounts to 31 per cent, and the average indicated yield 11.8 bu per acre. The following table shows the indicated yield for 1904 and the yield for five years previous as given by the department of agriculture:

	1904	1903	1902	1901	1900	1899
Minn.	11.0	11.3	12.9	14.4	10.5	13.4
N. Dak.	12.4	12.7	15.9	14.9	4.5	12.7
S. Dak.	9.2	12.8	12.2	12.0	6.5	10.7

With a yield of 14 bu per acre in Minnesota, 12.4 bu in North Dakota, and 9.2 bu in South Dakota, a yield of 161,625,769 bu is indicated for this year for the three states. These figures do not take into consideration the abandoned acreage, which is estimated at 25 per cent, or 81,176 acres in Minnesota, 3 per cent, or 137,016 acres in North Dakota, and 4 per cent, or 131,382 acres in South Dakota, and which would reduce present indicated yield to 157,680,673 bu for the three states.

There was never, perhaps, a crop showing greater difference in quality that ever came to the market. A part of this has been plucked into the smallest envelope that ever went into a mill for flour, while in other lots, the kernels are large, hard, and plump. These large kernels represent, in a measure, what the crop would have been had the indications of a month ago been fulfilled. Almost universally the grain was thick on the ground, large straw, and the heads were unusually long, and set full of kernels, even to the tip.

Government Report

Washington the weather bureau's weekly summary of crop conditions is as follows:

While the latter part of the week was abnormally cool in the Ohio valley, lower lake region, middle Atlantic states, and New England, the temperature as a whole was favorable for maturing crops. Freezing temperature is reported from Colorado, Wyoming and light frosts from Colorado, Montana, and portions of Ohio, Pennsylvania, and New York.

Although cool weather has prevented rapid development of corn in the Ohio valley and lake region, the crop as a whole has experienced decided improvement. Much that was blown down in the previous week in Indiana and Illinois is straightening. In the Missouri valley the temperature has been more favorable. Early corn has already matured in southern Missouri and is ripening rapidly in Nebraska and South Dakota, cutting being in progress in the first named state and in Kansas.

The week was practically rainless in the spring wheat region of Minnesota and the Dakotas, affording favorable weather for harvesting and threshing. Some early wheat in the northern portion of North Dakota is yet unripe and in that state. Disappointing yields are generally reported from Idaho, Washington, and Oregon.

In northern Alabama and in the southern portions of Mississippi and Louisiana cotton has improved and the crop is in good condition in Oklahoma and Indian territories, but elsewhere the reports generally indicate unfavorable progress. Boll worms and boll weevils are doing much damage in the southwest. Picking is in full progress in Texas and is general in the southern portions of the central and eastern districts.

A general improvement in tobacco is indicated. In Wisconsin the crop is doing well, although maturing slowly.

The outlook for apples continues promising in New England, New York and the upper lake region, but unfavorable reports continue from the states of the central valleys.

Good progress has been made with fall plowing throughout the central valleys and middle Atlantic states.

HELD A FEAST AS CARS SPED ALONG

Novel Innovation in Interurban Car Service Inaugurated Out of Chicago.

The management of the Rockford, Beloit and Janesville Interurban line anxiously watched the experiment first yesterday on the Aurora, Elgin and Chicago line. On foods cooked by electricity, guests of this road dined last night while speeding across the country at fifty miles an hour. It was the first trip of the new buffet car Carolyn and marked the innovation on electric lines in this country of a diner service.

Idea a Success
The trip was regarded as a demonstration of the success of the idea. Sitting at small tables in the long, heavy car, the guests dined as comfortably as though at home or club or hotel. Though a high speed was maintained between Chicago and Aurora, Elgin and the other points touched by the line, the great weight of the car and an elaborate system of springs prevented any jarring.

Boon to Golfers
It is believed the coach will be especially well patronized by Chicago members of the golf clubs which are adjacent to the line. Business men, it is figured, will be able to leave their offices at the last moment and, catching the buffet car, get their dinner and at the same time reach their destination in the shortest possible time.

New cars now coming from the builders will be added to the equipment of the day express, which hereafter will have seventy-foot day coaches, with partitioned off smoking compartments. It will also have new sixty foot chair cars. Some of the big day coaches and chair cars will be added to the equipment of the Pioneer Limited.

THE GREAT STATE FAIR.

Special Attractions for Every Day—

Opens Monday, Sept. 5.

There will be more amusement and more real worth in the Wisconsin State Fair this year than even the management had hoped for.

In addition to everything else which a state fair ought to have, the fair at Milwaukee, Sept. 5-9, will have special features ranging from wild animals to merry-go-rounds and from Dan Patch to Arabian aerobats. There will be a pike with twenty tent shows and a large number of free exhibitions and band music from the opening hour of the fair until its close. All these bands are excellent, but one, the Philippine Constabulary band, is said by Sousa, and by hundreds less competent, to be the finest military band in the world. It consists of eighty musicians, each of them an artist. plays modern music of a heavy character and they can be played, and at the same time serves as an object lesson to illustrate to Wisconsin patrons of the fair what good citizens the Filipinos are likely to make. Stocky and brown and odd the Filipinos are a queer but a capable race. Music is a passion with them and such a critic as Gen. Charles King, helped when they, into line as good children of Uncle Sam, says people who miss hearing them will regret it. Special influence on the war department at Washington enabled Wisconsin to procure the band from the St. Louis Exposition, but it will be heard in no other part of the United States.

Monday, the first day of fair week, the fair will open in full blast, with a military pageant, and sham battle, and Daredevil Tilden, The Flying Banavards, and various other specialists, Dan Patch, horse-racing and other features, will follow each other as fast as they can be crowded on. They will be repeated at night, with the matinee horses of the state engaging in a free-for-all and a 1:10 race by searchlight. There will be two concerts by the Filipinos, and two again Tuesday, when the same specialties will be repeated, with more horse-racing and other special attractions, such as hurdle racing, Wednesday Gov. La Follette will be present and after making a speech will see Dan Patch try to make a new record for a mile at the pace. There will be other speeches, the usual thrilling acts of balloon specialists, slack wire and ladder acrobats, as on Monday and Tuesday, and plenty of horse racing. Thursday Mayor David S. Rose, of Milwaukee, and other Milwaukee citizens, will make speeches, introducing the features of the day, and Friday the fair will close with a grand confetti coronet, automobile, bicycle and motor cycle racing. The nights of Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday the grounds will be illuminated by electricity and in addition to the music and the special free features there will be various kinds of horse races and many other unique attractions.

The fare to Milwaukee from all parts of the state during fair week over all railroads, is to be one fare plus fifty cents, which covers the cost of admission to the grounds. The opening day, which is soldiers' day, all veteran soldiers in uniform are to be admitted free.

While special attention has been given this year to adding popular attractions to as large an extent as possible to the fair, which includes a Pike, 1,000 feet long, on either side of the highway, through the grounds, in-shows, the fair proper has not been neglected. In every department it will exceed anything Wisconsin has known. Horses are now showing at St. Louis and the fair will lose some of the stock animals in that department, but in cattle it will catch many herds on their way to the great exposition and will profit thereby. In dairy machinery, all of which will be shown this year in operation, the fair will surpass all predecessors, as it will in the heavy farm machinery department. In agriculture, horticulture, woman's work and other line there will be a vast improvement, while the poultry department will be enormous.

The theory on which the state fair managers have worked this year has been to give as good an exhibit of the varied interests of the state of Wisconsin as is possible and at the same time to branch out as widely as possible in the introduction of popular specialties, both along the line of free feature and in the way of tent shows of all kinds, consistent with a state fair, so that in addition to instruction the patrons may be able to get all the amusement possible. By adding to all this such horse races as can be procured by the distribution of $25,000 in purses, by automobile and cycle races, by exhibitions by running horses and by Dan Patch, the king of all harness horses, by superior music and, to end all, a free-and-easy carnival has made up such a program as this state has never seen.

NEW INCORPORATIONS

Madison, Wis.—Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday in the office of Secretary of State, Housar as follows:

The Ross, Scheff & Weinman Piano Co., Milwaukee; capital stock, $20,000; incorporators, August Ross, Charles H. Scheff and Anton G. Weinman.

The Milwaukee Agricultural Society, Milwaukee, an organization for the mutual benefit of Jews, formed without capital stock; incorporators, A. W. Rich, Julius H. Meyer, Max Landauer, Morris Mills, Louis S. Gimbel, James M. Poreles and Nathan Glicksman. Attorney General Sturdevant certified in an opinion that the corporation came under the statute as a charitable corporation and exempt from the requirement of fees.

The Lindauer Pulp Manufacturing Co., Merrill, Lincoln county; capital stock, $75,000; incorporators, Luther Lindauer, Fred Lindauer and George T. O'Connell.

The Edgerton Telephone Co., Edgerton, Rock county, by F. W. Coon, president, and W. A. Shelley, secretary, filed an amendment increasing the capital stock from $5,000 to $15,000.

G. Crimmond, president of the Crimmond Shoe company, of St. Paul, a Minnesota corporation with capital stock of $100,000, of which not more than $25,000 is represented in Wisconsin, filed a statement and articles to operate in Wisconsin.

SUPREME COURT MEETS TUESDAY

Political Case Will Come Up, But Will Not Be Definitely Settled Upon Then.

The Wisconsin supreme court meets Tuesday morning and at that time the action of the stalwart republicans will come up again and the attorneys for the La Follette faction will be in court. It is not expected that any arguments will be heard Tuesday, but it is probable that the court will be asked by the La Follette attorneys to pass upon the question of jurisdiction raised in the answer of the administration. Governor La Follette claims that the statute provides that when such a political situation develops as now exists in the republican ranks, involving a dispute over which of two claimants conventions is the regular gathering, the committee, which called the convention shall hear evidence and determine the disputed question. If the court should decide this question in favor of the administration it would be equivalent to a decision in favor of the administration on the whole matter in controversy for the old state central committee, that called the convention which developed into two rival meetings is strongly La Follette, consisting in fact of many of the governor's appointees. A date will doubtless be set Tuesday for the hearing of arguments on the controversy before the court.

PYTHIANS ARRANGE FOR FIRST DANCE

Central Hall Will Be the Scene of Festivities on Friday Evening, September 29.

Thursday evening, September 29, is the date set for the first of the series of dances to be given for members of Oriental Lodge No. 22 of the Knights of Pythias and their friends. Central hall has been engaged for the occasion and Smith's full orchestra will play. The committee in charge of the arrangements consists of Stanley Tallman, B. H. Baldwin, W. O. Newhouse, Ward Stevens, and Tom Welch.

MRS. VIOLET JACOB
Author of "The Interloper."

A novelist who is regarded as one of the strongest and most convincing of British writers of fiction is introduced to Americans in "The Interloper" (Doubleday, Page & Company), by Violet Jacob. Her first novel, "The Sheepstealers," made a deep impression, and its promise is fulfilled in "The Interloper." Mrs. Jacob is the wife of Major Arthur Jacob who had a distinguished career in India, and who now has an important post in India. She has rare distinction of style and her whole work has literary quality of a high order. The scenes of "The Interloper" are laid in a quiet Scotch coast village, which is the picturesque background of an absorbing and dramatic tale. The English critics agree that Mrs. Jacob's place in literature is secure.

DROP-KICK WILL SCORE BUT FOUR

NEW FOOTBALL RULES REDUCE VALUE OF FIELD GOAL.

SIX MEN ON RUSH LINE

Are Required in All the Scrimmages—No Play To Be Allowed After a Fake Start.

Changes in detail in the football rules will soon engage the close attention of players, captains and officials interested in the game and are already a subject of comment among the ever increasing body of non-playing enthusiasts as the pigskin's hour draws near. It is no easy matter to master football rules in detail, particularly as changes are made by the rules committee annually. Some object to this constant tinkering, as they call it, but now deny that the committee is actuated by good motives. Walter Camp, who edits the rules and is one of the game's foremost experts, has this to say of this year's changes in Spalding's Guide for 1904, which has just been issued:

Will Affect Scrimmage.
The changes in the rules of 1904 is the main effect most seriously the scrimmage development. Last year, between the two 25-yard lines in the middle of the field a team was restricted to seven men in the line, but inside the 25-yard line, that is, nearer the goal line the old formations were admissible. In 1903 the quarterback could run only when in the middle of field, that is, between the two 25-yard lines, and that meant when only seven men were on the rush line or line of scrimmage. This year a team never can have less than six men on the rush line and if only six men are on the rush line then one of the men who plays behind the line must be outplays the man occupying the position on the end of the line of scrimmage. But it is admissible to run the quarterback at any time and in any part of the field, so long as he runs at least 5 yards outside of the spot where the ball was put in play.

Field Goal Counts Four.
The change next in importance is probably that regarding scoring. Under the rules of 1904 a field kick goal, instead of scoring 5 points as it has for many years, will count but 4. This will be true whether the goal is made by a drop kick or a place kick from the catch or a pick from placement in the scrimmage. The other changes are of lesser moment, and are as follows:

The umpire shall have some kind of a call distinguishing his signal from that of the referee and the play will continue in spite of the umpire's call until the ball is down, and then the referee will inflict the penalty called for by the umpire's decision. In case the side which has been offended against desires to refuse the penalty, they may do so and take the distance that they have gained.

Choice of Goal.
The rule about which there was some discussion last year, namely, the one regarding kick-off or choice of goal has been made clearer. It now provides that if the winner of the toss selects the goal, the loser of the toss must take the kick-off. The penalty for kicking out of bounds twice in succession has been lessened, the ball going as a down to the opponents on the 35-yard line instead of the 25-yard line. In case of interference with a man making a fair catch, the offended side can have their choice of putting the ball in play by a scrimmage, in which case they receive 15 yards, or putting it in play by a free kick, in which case they can have but 5 yards. The same is true regarding a man who has been thrown to the ground after making a fair catch.

The duties of a linesman are narrowed once more, and, in addition to his regular measuring of distance, he is only required to penalize a side if the ends are off side on a kick or for tripping an end going down the field after the kick, or any player for roughing the fullback.

FRATERNAL AID ASSOCIATION HELD INTERESTING MEETING

Attractive Program Was Enjoyed at Grand Army Hall Last Evening.

President W. W. Taylor delivered the address of welcome and Dr. Burdick gave the principal talk of the evening at the session of Rock Council No. 735, Fraternal Aid association, at the G. A. R. hall last night. A vocal solo by Miss Julia Daly, a piano selection by Miss Elizabeth Klenow, recitations by the Misses Alta Berg and May Schumacher, and an instrumental duet by the Misses May and Beale Schumacher were features of the program. Organizer LaCombe Col for Beloit was present at the meeting.

Apert from these alterations, there is nothing of moment, except regarding penalties. These have been grouped into two general classes, viz., those receiving a distance penalty, and those where some other penalty is given.

Penalties.
Under those of distance penalties there are two groups: First, those where the loss is 5 yards, and second, those where the loss is 15 yards.

A side loses 5 yards for conching or infringement of any part of rule 27 (f); delay of game; interference with putting the ball in play; off side in the scrimmage; starting before the ball is put in play in scrimmage; violation of scrimmage rule as specified in Rule 18 (b); snapperback off side the second time in the game down; passing or batting the ball forward; unsportsmanlike conduct; holding by defensive side of the player not carrying the ball; snapperback or man opposite touching the ball before it has touched a third man; piling up on a player after ball has been declared dead.

A side loses 15 yards for tripping, holding or unlawful use of hands or arms by the team in possession of the ball; illegal running by the man receiving the ball from the snapperback; that is, the quarterback; interference with fair catch.

Roughness.
Outside of distance penalties, disqualification is given for unnecessary roughness. The game is forfeited if a side refuses to play within two minutes after being ordered to do so by the referee, or if a team on the defense commits repeated fouls when near their own goal line in order to delay the game.

With regard to the last paragraph Section K of Rule 23 is interesting. It says:

"If a team on the defense commits fouls so near their goal line that these fouls are distinguishable only by the halving of the distance to the line, the object being in the opinion of the referee to delay the game, the offending side shall be regarded as refusing to allow the game to proceed. The referee shall in such case warn the offending side and if the offense is repeated, he shall declare the game forfeited to the opponents."

There have been cases where teams, with the ball close to their goal and, in the other side's possession, have deliberately gotten off side, sparing for time and getting a half penalty each time. The above rule is expected to squelch such practices.

Since the quarterback may run with the ball under certain conditions, in any part of the field, the entire field becomes a checkerboard, not merely the part between the 25-yard lines.

ANOTHER WONDER OF SCIENCE.

Biology has Proved that Dandruff is Caused by a Germ.

Science is doing wonders these days in medicine as well as in mechanics. Since Adam lived, the human race has been troubled with dandruff, for which no hair preparation has heretofore proved a successful cure until Newbro's Herpicide was put on the market. It is a scientific preparation that kills the germ that makes dandruff, scurf by digging into the scalp to get at the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality, causing itching scalp, falling hair, and finally baldness. Without dandruff hair must grow luxuriantly. It is the only destroyer of dandruff. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Coming Attractions.

E. J. Carpenter's "A Little Outcast," with its splendid scenic equipment, will be housed at the Myers Opera House next Monday afternoon and evening.

This big New York production is melodrama of the cleanest type, having every essence of human interest and is without doubt the best thing of its kind yet produced. The piece is brimful of modern amusements and peculiarly fascinating scenes to attract theatre goers, but withal it is a love story, pure and simple, with every trait of loyalty and affection which could be lent to give the play a nobler intent and color. The story, which is a wide departure from the usual type of drama is marked by novelty in construction, is built upon the vicissitudes of a young clerk, and passes in swift action from stately mansions to crime-infested haunts of New York.

The play opens in the office of Mr. Harcourt, a wealthy broker who is about to take his young clerk, Paul Weston, into the firm as junior partner. Weston also has the broker's sanction to a marriage with his pretty daughter, Madeline, whom Weston has already married in secret. But, Harcourt's graceless nephew, De Voe, a rejected suitor for Madeline's hand, has discovered that years before Weston had served a term in prison for another's crime. De Voe is present when Dick Higgins recognizes Weston as his former cell mate and secure money from him, with Higgins' aid, De Voe robs his uncle's safe, throws the blame on Weston and denounces him as a thief and ex-convict. Weston is number, the "Six Little Wives," which was sung in the New York production by Mr. George K. Fortescue and six young maidens of most engaging personality. In the big production of the time, the Chinese musical comedy which Mr. John C. Fisher is sending out this season, Mr. Fortescue will have his original role of "Yen Hoo" and the "six little wives" will include five of those who participated in the performances during the run at Daly's theatre. In organizing the company Mr. Fisher has done everything possible to make it superior to the one that first introduced "San Toy" to American audiences. This city is one of the fortunate ones included in the routing of the play this season.

Edward Morton and Sidney Jones are the authors of "San Toy," that highly meritorious musical comedy that has to do with the high officials in Chinese life. The play proved its quality to the eminent satisfaction of all those who saw it when it was originally produced at Daly's theatre utterly cast off by his former friends, and becoming a helpless, faithless, and a criminal in the worst part of the city, until, on the point of committing a crime, he is saved by little "Bob," a newboy, who has been his faithful friend. Weston wins his way out of his difficulties and the curtain falls on a happy home scene with Weston's name clear, his enemies overthrown and Madeline his own again.

The stage settings are striking and novel, views are given of a fashionable home with its white and gold drawing room, tapestries, windows and pink marble baths, a bizarre Chinese restaurant with its rich Oriental hangings, Five Points, Cooper Union and a panoramic view of the

In New York, and there will be a further opportunity of passing on its merits this season as John C. Fisher has secured the exclusive rights to present it throughout the country and will offer a company and production that is expected to create a furor. The principal members of the organization will be James T. Powers, Geo. K. Fortescue, Walter Hamilton, John Peachy, Margaret McKinney, Minna Rudolph, Josephine Neumann and others of the original cast, while the scenery, costumes, electrical effects and other adjuncts of musical comedy will be entirely new. "San Toy" is booked for this city and its coming constitutes an event of perhaps greater importance than anything else in this line that is booked for the season.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Wednesday, August 31, 1864.—Burglary.—We inadvertently failed yesterday to make mention of a burglary which took place on Monday night at the home of Timothy Jackman in the Third ward. Entrance was obtained to the house from the front door, the key having been turned by means of forepicks, from the outside. The intruder made his way to the room of Mr. Jackman and abstracted his pantaloons and coat and carried them away from the house. The coat was found in the morning a long distance from the house hanging on the fence. The pants in which they were a wallet containing from $12 to $20 was carried off. The rascal evidently had a keen eye to business and seemed fully to have understood the value of cloth in making his selection for carrying off clothes. When he makes his second appearance some one should present him in addition to his plunder a lump of cold lead, which is now high in the market. Look out for the villain.

Another.—The home of Sanford A. Hudson, Esq., in the First ward, was entered last evening in a manner similar to that of Mr. Jackman's and his pantaloons and wallet containing from $15 to $18 taken. The scoundrels operating here are evidently regular professional burglars, and our citizens should be on the alert against them.

Death of Mr. A. B. Smith.—News was received here by telegraph last evening of the death at Saratoga of Mr. A. B. Smith, president of the Wisconsin State Telegraph company. He was a resident of Kenosha.

Attention, Second Ward.—All persons interested in the correcting of the enrollment lists in accordance with the late order of the Provost Marshal are requested to meet at Engine House No. 2, at 7:30 this evening. S. C. Burnham, Alderman Second Ward.

PAINLESS DENTISTRY.

Get your children's teeth put in order right now, before they get into the new year of school work.

School with its nervous strain is enough for our young people to stand up under, without their being tormented by bad teeth.

Incidentally, there is a Janesville Dentist who has great friends among the children. He somehow gains and retains their entire confidence.
It is DR. RICHARDS and he makes it a study to "avoid hurting."

VERDICT OF THE PARTY

From the report of the Committee on Credentials to the REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION, which was unanimously adopted by that convention, June 23, 1904.

Your committee report it to be their final judgment that the convention which elected John G. Spooner, J. V. Quarles, J. W. Babcock and Emil Baensch as delegates at large, and their alternates at large, to this convention from the state of Wisconsin WAS THE REGULAR CONVENTION OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY IN WISCONSIN, and that the delegates elected by it are the regular elected delegates at large from the state of Wisconsin to the republican convention, and, as such, are entitled to seats in this convention.

PORT ARTHUR.

Henry Villard, who, in later years, became one of our greatest financiers, was during the civil war one of the most enterprising and able of war correspondents. Yet in his memoirs, recently published, he declared that he did not believe in newspaper correspondents being allowed within military lines and permitted to report military movements. That was the policy held by Gen. Sherman, so far as he was able to govern the matter, and Mr. Villard, although he suffered from Gen. Sherman's policy, while he was a correspondent, years later recorded his conviction that Gen. Sherman was right.

The Japanese, who have been so quick to seize upon every latest improvement in armament and military tactics and equipment, and have apparently searched the world over for "points" of war, have adopted the Sherman policy as regards war correspondents. The special correspondents sent to the Orient have been denied opportunity for observation and not one of them has been permitted to accompany a Japanese army engaged in important movements.

There may be two opinions as to the wisdom of the Japanese policy as regards the war correspondents. From the military standpoint it may have been an advantage, but perhaps for Japan's reputation before the world it might have been better to have given the correspondents more liberty for observation. On the whole, publicity has its advantage in war as in peace.

It is certain, however, that the most dramatic, not to say, tragic, event of the world's history in a generation, is going on at Port Arthur, without independent, trained, journalistic observers in a position to give a full, connected account of the affair. The meagre cablegrams convey but a mere outline of the stupendous battle that has been so long in progress. Yet it is easy to understand the fearful nature of the struggle. Nothing since our own civil war, or at least since the Franco-Prussian war, can compare with it. Even the assault on Sebastopol sinks into insignificance beside this attack on the Gibraltar of the East. Such scenes of heroism, such sacrifice of life, such delirium of passion, such wonderful control of the modern mechanism of war, have not been witnessed by this generation. The attack on Port Arthur will pass into history as one of the great events of the world. We must admire the skill and patriotic enthusiasm of the Japanese, but no less the calm but desperate courage of the Russians. No more tragic note has been struck on the keys of time than the message reported to have been sent to his friends by Gen. Stoessel commanding the Port Arthur garrison: "Port Arthur will be my tomb." That is the language of a man who prefers death to surrender.

The war has already cost the contending nations upwards of $300,000,000, besides tens of thousands of lives. And why this sacrifice of life and treasure? Is it the price paid for pride, ambition, and lust for power, or is it, in some occult way, God's preparation for some mighty upheaval in the Orient?

War seems a frightful waste, a terrible calamity, and yet war, by that Providence which makes all things work together for good, has paved the way for great epochs in the progress of civilization. The history of liberty is written in blood.

The fall of Port Arthur seems inevitable and near. It will mean the destruction of Russia's power in Manchuria and Korea and give Japan control of the territory which was the occasion of the dispute leading to the war, for it will probably soon be followed by the defeat of Gen. Kuropatkin.

Will this end the war? It is to be hoped so, but Russia may be too proud to permit the contest to end in this way. But where else can the war be waged than in the territory now passing into the possession of Japan?

An end of the war could not but be beneficial to business much as the creditors of Russia may be disturbed by her defeat. Indeed a declaration of peace might prove the one thing needful to turn the business sentiment and business policy into new channels of activity.

So Kempf has at last been forced out of office. Too bad that he could not have taken a brace and refused the governor a few of those "thousand" he was short during the pre-convention period.

So it was not all Uncle Ike's money that furnished the shew of the campaign for the administration. A few semillions of the "patient poor" want to help swell the chorus of hired deputies at the state convention.

Babcock says we need all the republican congressmen we can get and yet Bob organizes La Follette and Roosevelt clubs and tries to beat republican congressmen in Wisconsin.

The governor did not appear at the capitol building while his friend, Mr. Kempf, was packing up his belongings and getting ready to leave.

The Royal Automobile has arrived. Like King Dodo, it will give the gladmit to many a weary politician and will also scare the children and horses into complacency fits.

The supreme court is not in it when it comes to deciding a question of law as long as the defunct state central committee is able to be raised from its grave.

National politics are still on the boom. The grief at Uncle Gasaway's failure to deliver the goods in his acceptance speech has died away.

It is safe to bet a goodly number of the delegates at Oshkosh voted for Bob's delegates to the republican convention in the caucuses last spring.

The peanut politicians of the Milwaukee organ of the administration will have a chance to rejoice once more. Kempf is gone.

These democrats are all puffed up with pride today and it is a wonder that Oshkosh can hold them.

William Vilas has again entered the political ring for all that there is in it for William.

The fact a man voted for McKinley makes no difference in the love feast at Oshkosh.

The lid is certainly off state affairs now. Listen to the garble that will come forth.

Seventeen hundred is not much but it helps some.

PRESS COMMENT.

Sheboygan Journal: Even if bread does go up, apple pie will be cheap.

Cincinnati Commercial Tribune: Even how the war between Minneapolis and St. Paul has broken out as to which got hit the hardest in that wind racket.

Menasha Record: After all, there is something rather fitting in La Follette's campaign in a "bubble bugle."

Seranton Tribune: Senator Hill's recent speech is proof of the wisdom displayed by Candidate Parker in keeping quiet.

Menasha Citizen: You may have noted that the man who says he can take a drink or let it alone always takes it.

Milwaukee Sentinel: There are few animals that are not endowed by nature with the instinct of self-defense, and even a state treasurer is entitled to a chance to fight.

Chicago Record-Herald: Most of the Paraguayan government officials are now prisoners in the hands of the revolutionists. The Paraguayan army continues, however, to keep several laps ahead of his pursuers.

DuPont Post: The Massachusetts man who was fined for kicking a cat should rather have been commended for his athletic skill and quickness of action in having accomplished such a remarkable feat.

Racine Times: The first football casualty of the season has been listed. The game should not be picked before it is ripe. Let us reserve the summer for other troubles.

Racine Journal: A paper friendly to the St. Louis fair says it is a mistake to let the impression get out that the great exposition needs any advertising. It thinks it cheapening to the fair.

Chicago Inter Ocean: A New York man who attended a theatrical performance with his best girl found it so bad that they walked out and got married. If this were followed at every poor theatrical performance ministers and justices of the peace would have all their time occupied.

Fond du Lac Commonwealth: Whatever may be the controlling motive Sir Thomas, royal sportsman that he is, should be welcomed to America with his Shamrock IV, and then with Shamrock V, and so on as long as his ambition, his challenges and his cash hold out.

Evansville Enterprise: No doubt many will praise General Stoessel as being very gallant and brave in not surrendering Port Arthur, but we think it an unnecessary sacrifice of life, besides that of the general, all of which he is responsible for; and sometimes a live coward is worth more than a dead hero.

Madison Democrat: If aldermen are to grant readily all the liquor licenses asked for then the best the public may do is either to choose a council able to see that the municipality is of greater importance to this community than all the saloons combined or increase the license fee to the maximum limit. Eighty-five sources of information exceeds enormously the demands of this growing college town.

Oconto Reporter: Those republicans who argue that the appeal to the supreme court is an attempt to coerce them into voting for some one they do not want or insist that they will not abide by its decision are talking nonsense. It is simply to have the court decide who were the legally nominated republican candidates and no different from an action brought to determine the ownership of a horse claimed by two men or the title to a piece of land claimed by two men or set of men. If the court decides that Cook and his associates are the legally nominated republican candidates Mr. La Follette and his associates cannot be, and everyone will have to abide by it. This does not mean that Mr. La Follette may not be a candidate, for he may, but not the republican candidate. He has a perfect right to run as an independent candidate and any voter who chooses will have a perfect right to vote for him, but only as an independent candidate, not as a republican.

BY THE PERSEVERING PIKER.

When the horse comes to a short stop the bettor is brought to a round turn.

When comment on a race is unnecessary there is considerable unnecessary comment.

Don't kick when your horse recedes in the betting. That isn't half as bad as when he recedes in the progress of a race.

Half the time we don't know which horse to back, and the other half the horse don't seem to know that we are backing him.

That wall of mourning which arises from the lower end of the lawn merely indicates that some horse is dying in the stretch.

Ever see a ridiculous mortal plant his two sound limbs on a chair seat and vainly endeavor to "root" home a racehorse who hasn't got a leg to stand on?

When you observe a racegoer with legs shaped like parentheses you may attribute it to the fact that the gentleman may have been bowed down by grief.

Once upon a time, during the quiet following the decision of a race, the grandstand shook as if rattled by an earthquake. A fat lady in the second row had swallowed a sob.

When you have finally mustered up enough courage to place $20 on a 1 to 2 shot and he runs a dead heat for you, and they split the face value of your ticket, don't you feel like a cripple ready to throw away his crutches? Oh, yes!—New York Telegraph.

DOES A VACATION PAY.

Does it pay to add to the comfort and happiness of ourselves and those about us by being bright and more cheerful ourselves?

Does it pay to get rid of some of our narrow prejudices, hatreds and jealousies that are encouraged by the strenuous city life?

Does it pay to make the most of all the powers that God has given you by bringing superb health and vitality to your aid in developing them?

Does it pay to put beauty into the life, to gather serenity and peace from the sweet music of the running brooks and the thousand voices in nature?

Does it pay to develop our powers of observation; to learn to read "books in the running brooks, sermons in stones, and good in everything?"

Is it a good investment to exchange a few dollars for a great deal of health and happiness; to economize on that on which the very well-springs of our being depend?

Is it better to be a full-rounded man or woman, with large views and a wide outlook, or a mere automatic machine running in the same old groove year after year?

Does it pay to be free, for a time, from the petty annoyances that vex, hinder and exasperate, to get out of ruts and the old beaten tracks and take a stock of brand-new ideas?—Orison Swift Marsden in Success.

EDWIN JOHNSON DIED ON HIS OWN CEMETERY LOT

FORMER PROPRIETOR OF MYERS HOUSE COMMITTED SUICIDE.
FOUND DEAD THIS MORNING

He Left Fond du Lac Yesterday, and Went to His Old Home in Johnson, Where He Took His Life.

Sometime between the hours of four o'clock last evening and eight this morning Edwin C. Johnson, well-known and well-beloved in this community for twenty years, ended his life with a revolver shot in the lower left chest at Johnson. He was missed in Fond du Lac at the noon hour yesterday when he did not return to the home of his son-in-law, Frank Tanous, with whom he and his wife had been living since leaving Janesville last fall, but little was thought of the circumstance at the time. When he did not return at night, however, the family became alarmed and made some inquiries. They learned that early in the day he had been seen writing a letter in the Palmer home but no further clue to his whereabouts could be discovered. Late last evening, Mrs. Johnson, surmising that the letter might have been addressed to his brother, H. S. Johnson, in Janesville, communicated with the latter by telephone. He had not received the missive and thinking that it might have come in on a late mail, called up Postmaster Nowlan. The latter went with him to the office, about midnight, and looked through the mail but the missive so much desired was not to be found.

Brought Terrible News.
If S. Johnson left early this morning for Fond du Lac in the hope of assisting the family in unweaving the mystery and shortly after he had gone the letter, so anxiously sought for last evening, arrived. While it had been written at Fond du Lac it bore the postmark of Milton. Mrs. Johnson opened the envelope and read the pages filled with despondency and hopelessness, and concluding with the declaration that the writer's body would be found on the only piece of ground he owned in this world—in the cemetery at Johnson. A message was sent to intercept Mr. Johnson before he should reach Fond du Lac and Walter Penner, residing in Johnson, Center, was requested over the telephone to go to the cemetery and ascertain whether or not the terrible tidings were to be confirmed.

As in Summer.
It was near eight o'clock when Mr. Penner reached the Johnson town lot to find that the story of the letter was all too true. Lying with his face toward the sky, his right hand clasping a revolver resting upon his breast, and a bullet wound in his right temple, was the man whom relatives in two cities were anxiously seeking. From every appearance the act had been committed while he was in a sitting posture and he had fallen backward, dying without a struggle. Mr. Penner examined the revolver. He found it to be of twenty-two calibre with two of the chambers empty. No evidence of the cuffs worn by the dead man there were some writing that could not be deciphered. The figures "5-30" however could plainly be distinguished and were taken to indicate the hour when the deed was done. Hastening to town Mr. Penner communicated with Janesville, confirming the fears that had been entertained.

Last Seen at Four.
As far as can be learned Edwin Johnson was last seen in the vicinity of his old farm near Johnson by some of the women at present living there. About the same time a man driving a team on the road thereabouts saw a man answering to his description step into the woods, apparently to avoid meeting him. The body was brought to Janesville this morning and funeral services will be held here, though arrangements have not been completed.

Good Fortune and Ill.
The deceased was born Oct. 31, 1818. He spent his early life in Johnson and came to this city about twenty years ago to take charge of the Park hotel. He prospered in this venture and finally settled his interests at a good figure and subsequently engaged in the hardware business with Leroy F. Hollaway in the store on South River street now occupied by the Lowell grocery store. This venture did not prove as good as one as the first. Seven years ago with a man named Donahue he purchased the interest in the Myers hotel held by a Mr. Miller. The Donahue interests were subsequently purchased by Charles D. Stevens. In this, his last venture, Mr. Johnson lost every dollar he had accumulated in other years and his tenancy ceased last October.

His Scrawling Family.
Besides his mother and brother, Mr. Johnson is survived by a wife and three children—Harry E. who lives in Janesville, Leonard E. who is identified with a smelting company in Denver, and Mrs. Edna Tanous who resides in Fond du Lac. The wife and Mrs. Tanous had expected to leave for Denver this morning, in adversity as well as in prosperity. Mr. Johnson had many friends. Few save the most intimate, dreamed to what extent, under his smiling and cheerful exterior, the weight of misfortune was crushing out all hope.

KING OYSTER IS AGAIN SUPREME

First Supply of the Season Has Reached the City—Prospects for a Good Crop.

Though the reign of king oyster does not officially open until September 1 he is doing business now, but not on as large a scale as he will later on. Dealers in the succulent bivalves have received the first supply of the season. So far only New York counts, selects and some blue-points have been received. The standards will come later. It is too early to estimate the yield of the season, but it is expected that it will be much better than last year, when the cold weather forced the oyster dredgers to suspend operations for weeks. Probably few people in the west realize the enormous quantity of oysters shipped out every year from Baltimore, Norfolk and other points on the eastern coast. The industry of catching and shucking oysters supports thousands of people. The greater part of the shucking, the opening of the shells, is done by colored men. They seem to have a natural aptitude for the business.

West of the Alleghany mountains oysters are served in three or four styles, stewing, frying, scalloping, etc. Only a person who has had the pleasure of eating them roasted, fresh from the shell can tell his friends how good they are. Harvey's restaurant, in Washington, one of the celebrated oyster and fish houses in the United States, many years ago originated a dish called steamed oysters. A quantity of unshucked oysters are steamed over a hot fire. When they have gone through that process they are opened one at a time and dropped into a dish containing butter, salt, pepper, celery salt, Worcestershire sauce and other relishes. The whole mixture probably amounts to a half-teaspoonful. The red-hot oysters when they come in contact with the mixture melt the butter. The bivalves are eaten at once, as fast as the dainty can shuck them. They make a delicious morsel.

CHANCE FOR TWO AMBITIOUS BOYS

SUPT. HEMMINGWAY HAS SCHOOL SHIPS AT DISPOSAL.

IN WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Law School, Which Is Institution of High Standing—Girls Also Are Eligible.

Charles Hemmingway, county superintendent of schools for the first district, has received notice from President James Heaps of the University of Washington, at Washington, D. C., that he has been elected a University appointee for that institution and is duly authorized to appoint one worthy young man and woman to the department of law, either with a view of practicing the profession or as a part of a liberal education. On request of the executive board the President also states that if there are no lady applicants, Mr. Hemmingway is entitled to appoint two young men. It is asked that the appointments be made at once in order that appointments may enter at the opening of the fall term on Tuesday, Sept. 20. As soon as the appointees have been decided upon their names are to be sent in together with those of the unsuccessful applicants in order that the latter may be appointed in the order of merit named by the superintendent in case any vacancy occurs. A scholarship is valued at $100 a year and entitles the holder to free instruction until graduation from the department of law, the time, however, not to exceed three years. Following the practice of all reputable institutions of learning to which a free school like this is not an exception, every matriculant is required to pay the usual annual incidental fee of $20 and his own board and lodging. The tuition is free.

JAS. CORNING HAS SECURED DIVORCE

From His Wife, Maggie Corning, on Grounds of Desertion—Alleged Attack with Butcher Knife.

James E. Corning has secured in circuit court a decree of divorce from his wife, Maggie Corning, the complaint having been amended from cruel and inhuman treatment to desertion. They were married in La Crosse in 1886 and managed a hotel at Delavan, Minn., before removing to this city. The defendant is alleged in the complaint to have possessed a violent temper and to have subjected her husband to all manner of indignities during the period from 1888 until their final separation in 1899. In May, 1888 she is alleged to have pursued her husband with a butcher knife.

SEPTEMBER TO BE A STORMY MONTH

Prophet Hicks Promises Frequent Disturbances of Unusual Violence.

From start to close September is to be a month of storms, according to the forecast as seen by Hicks, whose guesses are generally pretty good. A storm period that will prevail the last two days of August will extend into the opening of September and after the 2nd cooler weather will come. From the fourth to the tenth there is promised a number of severe disturbances that will continue through the eleventh and thirteenth. Wednesday the seventh and Saturday the tenth will bring a decided crisis showing that equinoctial hurricanes are near. If no wind term is not important, a heavy rain is not important. Frosts for the northwest will occur between the twelfth and fifteenth. Another storm period will be from the sixteenth to the twenty-first and vast electrical disturbances may result. Whatever character of storms are in progress during the period 16th to 21st Sunday (the 18th, to Wednesday the 21st, will bring the culminating crisis of the period. Storms will be central the 27th and 29th and the period will run into October and warm weather will come with the close of the month, on the 29th and 30th.

AUGUST HAS BEEN VERY COOL MONTH

THE THERMOMETER HAS NOT REACHED NINETY DEGREES.

CORN AND TOBACCO BEHIND

Heavy Rainfalls on Several Occasions—Table of the Daily Temperatures.

August has nearly passed and not a day has the temperature reached the 90 degree mark. The warmest days were in the middle of the month, when the thermometer stood in the 80s. This has been an unusually cool summer, and the season has so far advanced that there are little hopes for any more warm weather.

During the years 1901, 1902 and 1903 August was the warmest month but from a mere guess of the prospects at the observatory at Madison it is altogether probable that July will have been the warmest month this year, the average temperature being 77 degrees.

Corn and Tobacco Slow.
The continued cold nights have delayed the crops considerably, and the corn and tobacco crops will need fully three weeks longer to become matured. The first frost for the year 1902 was on the 13th of September, and in 1903 on the 18th. It seldom happens that the 15th of September is passed without a frost.

The nights have been quite cool during the whole month. Ten nights the temperature has fallen into the 50s, only 20 degrees from the freezing point. Last year the average temperature for the months of June and July was 63.2; this year it was 63.6.

During the first part of the month little rain fell, but on the 19th and 22d the fall was heavy for this time of the year. A table giving the figures of maximum and minimum temperature, together with the precipitation for the month follows:

NEW FIRE STATION IN SPRING BROOK WELL UNDER WAY

Work on the Cement Foundation is Progressing Rapidly.

Residents of Spring Brook will have ample fire protection within the next three months, or as soon as the new fire station is erected. The new station will be on the corner of Eastern avenue and McKay boulevard, with the entrance facing McKay boulevard. The building will be a frame structure, two stories high, with a bell tower and is a very unique station. One wagon with hose, ladders and chemicals will do duty in that part of the city. The house will be built so as to house four horses, if other apparatus may be found necessary. The plans were drawn by Architect Kemp while Blair & Summers have the contract for the building.

LOUIS BELDEN SUFFERED A PAINFUL INJURY TO HIS FOOT

Was Sent to the Company's Hospital at Tomah Today for Medical Treatment.

Louis Belden of this city, who was injured some six weeks ago, near Plattville while in the employ of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad tearing down fences, met with a painful injury to his left foot. He stepped on a rusty nail which penetrated the foot just under the great toe, and he has been confined to his home in this city ever since the accident occurred. This morning he was sent to the company's hospital at Tomah where he will receive the best of medical treatment. His many friends in the city hope that the injured young man will soon be able to be around again.

PALMISTRY

As a science, is recognized by the Supreme Court of the United States; there is a vast difference between Palmistry and so-called fortune-telling; the first is reliable, the second is nonsense—in fact, harmful to the believer.

C. MOREL,

THE EXPERT PALMIST AND CLAIRVOYANT FROM MILWAUKEE.

He can be consulted on all affairs of life: Health, sickness, business chances, speculation, journeys, courtship, marriage, divorce, domestic affairs, troubles and difficulties, law suits, estates, etc. Your life and all that the years hold are plainly written in your hand. Half of the mistakes in life arise in not knowing how to act in harmony with coming events. Palmistry and Clairvoyance, rightly understood, solves the problem and puts you on the right track. He will tell you what opportunities there are in life for you and how to take advantage of them. There is no home so sad and dreary, no life so wretched and blighted, that cannot be set right, after a visit to the gifted man of modern times. Avail yourself of this opportunity. He has helped others, he will help you. It costs no more to consult him than those that are less competent to advise you. Are you

COREAN PRINCE IS ENGAGED

Heir to the Throne Will Wed a Pretty Ohio School Miss.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 31.—Prince Penkell Eulwha, known as Prince Yee, heir to the Korean throne, has another affair of the heart. This time it is pretty 16-year-old Mary Buttles of Columbus, O., who is not yet out of high school. Prince Yee now lives at Salem, Md., where he is studying under a private tutor, and it was while Miss Buttles and her mother were spending the summer at a near-by resort that the attachment began. The formal engagement will soon be announced. Last summer Prince Yee was in love with Miss Clara Bull, a pretty Cincinnati milliner, whom he met at Delaware, O., where he was attending college. Miss Bull displayed a diamond engagement ring, but a few weeks later it was declared off.

NEW SUSPECT IN BEDFORD CASE

Detective Thinks He Has Solved the Schafer Murder Mystery.

Bedford, Ind., Aug. 31.—The arrest of a man suspected of having murdered Sarah Schafer in Bedford on the night of Jan. 21 is expected within a few days, according to the declaration of a detective who has been working on the case since the adjournment of the last special grand jury. The detective declares that he has discovered conclusive evidence against the man whom he is about to accuse of the murder. The detective declares his belief that the murderer of Sarah Schafer was employed by a citizen of Bedford to put the young schoolteacher out of the way and that the murder was deliberately planned and carried out. He scoffs at the theory that the crime involved a motive other than murder.

ECCENTRIC MAN CHASES SOLON

Joe Peg Accuses Senator Clark of Carrying Grouse in Pocket.

Missoula, Mont., Aug. 31.—United States Senator W. A. Clark was attacked here by a man known on the streets as Joe Peg, who thought the senator had been breaking the game laws and was carrying a grouse in his pocket and who threatened to take the senator's life. Peg followed the senator several blocks, persistently calling upon him to hand over the grouse. Senator Clark ran panting into the lobby of the Florence hotel and demanded protection. He was sure that Peg had a gun, for several times the latter had made motions to pull it and threatened to shoot unless the senator would give up his game bird. Several persons sprang to his assistance and the insane man was overpowered.

LA SALLE IS FREE OF LEPROSY

Afflicted Man Found to Be Suffering From Another Disease.

La Salle, Ill., Aug. 31.—At a convocation of all the physicians of La Salle and numerous medical practitioners within a radius of fifty miles of La Salle it was decided that Matthew Nubaski, who it was thought was a victim of leprosy, was suffering from another disease. That Nubaski is not a leper was definitely ascertained after an examination by Dr. L. Blake Baldwin, the expert of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Chicago, together with Dr. Baker of Springfield, inspector for the state board of health. Dr. Baldwin's statement that Nubaski is not a leper greatly relieved the public.

While Saving a Patient After Oil Stove Explosion Sister Meets Death.

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 31.—Sister Gohn of the Little Franciscan Sisters of the Sacred Heart was burned to death while trying to save a patient, Mrs. Fred Passino. An oil stove exploded in the Passino home, where the sister was acting as a nurse. Instead of saving herself Sister Gohn ran to the aid of the sick woman. The fire department rescued Mrs. Passino and her baby, but Sister Gohn was dead when found. She came to Springfield eleven months ago from France.

MUST NOT FLIRT OVER THE WIRE

Telephone Girls Are Discharged and Others Given Rule of Conduct.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 31.—Flirting by telephone is a capital offense in the local telephone exchanges and fifty girls operators have been figuratively decapitated for "jolly" subscribers over the wires. The telephone company, in addition to discharging the fifty girls, has issued stringent rules that forbid the new operators, as well as the old employees who survived the beheading order, to say even "How do you do?" to their "best beaux."

HORNETS CAUSE BOY TO DROWN

Insects Drive Lad Into the River and Sting Him Violently.

New York, Aug. 31.—Alexander Dickson, a 12-year-old lad, has been driven into the Bronx river by a swarm of hornets and drowned. The boy, with several companions, had stoned a hornet's nest until the little insects came out in swarms and chased the boys toward the river. Dickson stumbled and fell into the water. The hornets hovered about, stinging him violently when he came to the surface.

LITTLE FRANCE

A ROMANCE OF THE DAYS WHEN "THE GREAT LORD HAWKE" WAS KING OF THE SEA

BY CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY

Author of "Commodore Paul Jones," "Reuben James," "For the Freedom of the Sea," etc.

Copyright, 1901, by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

But it came into Grafton's mind that if it were difficult to climb up to that balcony window, it would be less difficult to climb down from it, and the idea of escaping sprang into his head. Indeed, he had often been with him, but he had seen no way whatever to bring it about until that afternoon, that very moment in the oriel of that tower.

Beyond the rocky edges of the shore, to seaward, the horizon was dark with the sails of ships. It was the huge fleet of Boscawen lingering off the coast in the vain hope that something might draw the French out from Brest at that time and a general engagement might be brought about. If Grafton could gain that window at night, descend the wall, seize the little boat in the cove, he might reach the ships! He stood in abstracted silence gazing seaward until the girl laid her hand lightly upon his arm.

"Have you forgotten me, Sir Philip?" she questioned him jealously; "were you thinking of—"

"Of home for a moment, my child, of old England, and a better-loved shore farther away. Those are English ships and—but never mind, we were talking of the lady's lover. Yes, I can see how he might have come up the wall."

"And of course I will not let you do that now because—but would you ask it for me some day?" she asked anxiously.

"Some day, perhaps, I shall show you," he replied. "I could do harder things than that for you. But come let us seek the dragons in the garden, beautiful dame. 'Tis a long time since we have had an adventure of any sort. Call Josette for your court, and after battle I shall crown you Queen of Love and Beauty again. I can beat you down the stairs," he added as they raced away.

CHAPTER VIII.

THE END OF THE PLAY.

THAT night he determined to put in practice the attempt to escape, the first definite possibility of which had come to him that afternoon. Indeed, it had grown upon him with each passing moment. He lay awake for hours after he had retired and Anatole had been dismissed, waiting until the people in the chateau, except the guards at the gate and the watchmen on the walls, had all gone to sleep. And for a true knight his thoughts at least were concerned, since he dreamed not of the Lady Anne but of freedom.

Toward midnight he arose, dressed himself quickly, and softly stole through the deserted halls until he came to the unoccupied chamber in the round tower. No especial watch was kept upon him, no guards were stationed upon the tower and but few on the seaward side of the chateau. Moving circumspectly he had met no one nor had he attracted the attention of any sleeper.

He stepped quickly through the great room to the oriel. He stood for a moment on the balcony looking out to sea. It was a bright moonlight night. Away on the horizon twinkled the faint yellow light of the English ships. Far below him in the shadow of the cliffs the waves were breaking in silent splashing upon the splintered shore. He could hear the rhythmic persistent beat of their tireless assault upon the rocks, see the white water, shot with phosphorescent sparks, churned into foam over the reefs at the foot of the cliffs.

He hesitated as he surveyed the scene; although his purpose was unchanged, he realized as he had not before, that his undertaking was fraught with the greatest danger. He might reach the foot of the cliff alive or he might not. The chances were against him. Things looked differently in the night time. A slip, a misstep, a fall, and death would be the end, death on the rocks 200 feet below, with the white foam for a shroud, and the ebbing tide to bear him far out to sea.

Yet he must needs go on. But as he made ready to descend, his thoughts suddenly went back to the little girl who had been his playmate during the past few weeks. He had almost forgotten her for the moment. Was he a recreant knight thereby? His conscience reproached him. Strange as it may seem, he felt a pang of regret when he realized that once he stepped over the balcony wall and essayed the descent he should be parted from her forever. In death or in liberty they would be equally separated. "The little Rose of Rohans—to see her no more! The thought gave him a peculiar feeling. He paused, reluctant. He was surprised at himself.

The little maiden with her mingling of childish innocence and womanly charm had grown very dear to him, and the joy he anticipated in soon regaining his liberty was sadly dimmed by the certain sadness of that inevitable parting. Yet the feeling was not strong enough to deter him—then. It was deep enough, however, to give him pause. He lingered, thinking swiftly. It was duty that turned the scale—duty and love are antagonists of old.

He had learned something about the French fleet in Brest and the location of the defenses in the harbor in his rapid ride through the town when he came to the chateau, and from his frequent, although apparently cursory examinations of the position from the towers and walls he had learned more. His information would be of great value. He was an officer of the king, and when the possibility of escape presented itself, at all hazards he must make an effort to reach the ships. The marquis had spoken once or twice about exchange, but nothing had yet come from it and such matters were slow at best.

As it seemed more feasible, as the possibility approached nearer, his desire grew. The detaining image of the French girl grew fainter. Duty, liberty, freedom, action—what child could stand in the way? Therefore again he determined to attempt the descent. Yet it was a forbidding undertaking now that he had settled upon it. It had seemed easier in the daylight than at night time. The bend of the wall cast the corner in a black shadow, the more intense on account of the brightness of the moonlight beyond.

His mind was in a strange turmoil. Death—love—liberty—what would be the end? Pah! He would think no more, he would do it!

He climbed up on the stone railing of the balcony, turned his back toward the tower, slid along the coping stone until he could feel the angle between the wall and his hand, his shoulders touching either side of the angle. He held firmly to the coping of the balcony, which he determined not to let go of until he was sure of a foot rest. Then he stretched out his right leg and felt about in the shadow until finally his foot hit the first projection. He breathed a prayer and prepared to descend. He was glad the angle was in the shadow. He could not see what was beneath him. The black cliffs under his feet hid their terrors from him. He intended to try it with his face outward, his back in the angle, his hands and feet outstretched, clutching at or feeling for every inequality. He was about to let go. Another moment and he had gone, when he felt a familiar little hand laid upon his arm. "Come back, come back, you will be killed!" whispered a small frightened voice. He was so startled in spite of the quietness of her address that he nearly lost his hold and fell. He recovered himself, however, by a prodigious effort, and aided by the girl's nervous, clinging hands he drew himself up slowly, and swinging his legs back over the coping landed once more on the solid floor of the balcony. The idea of disregarding her summons did not once occur to him.

"Were you doing this for me?" asked the girl innocently, still clinging to him as if afraid to release him.

"Mademoiselle Anne!" he cried in great surprise and annoyance, "why are you here?" He was trembling violently from his exertions and the tense emotions of the past few moments.

"Why not, Sir Philip? You are here yourself, you see," she answered unsuspiciously, approaching him and laying an innocent hand on his arm and looking steadily at him.

"Yes, but I—come into the tower," he said drawing her back through the window into the room. How her eyes gleamed in the moonlight! What depths were there, what unfathomable mysteries lurked within their shadows! He had never seen them so before. They started him—those eyes so softly tender, so deeply blue. And the exquisite pallor of that face framed in the misty blackness of her floating hair—the girl was beautiful.

Following him into the chamber she stopped unconsciously where the moonlight streamed in through the window. For the first time he noticed what she wore in the bright illumination. Apparently she was clad in her night-dress with a loose wrapper hastily thrown about her shoulders; her little bare feet gleamed like marble on the stone floor. One hand hung by her side, with the other she instinctively gathered the wrapper across her breast with a movement at once modest yet charming.

"Why you are in your night-robe!" he exclaimed in astonishment, but not raising his voice for fear of attracting attention. "Your feet are bare and on these damp stones! You'll catch your death of cold! My dear child!"

He forgot that he was her knight, and stooping down lifted her slender form in his strong young arms. She half-struggled a moment and then acquiesced. What was he to do with her? The carpetless room was bare of furniture and, save for themselves, empty. He hesitated, stepped into the window, sat down upon the low sill, and set her on his knee, holding her firmly, carefully, tenderly. She, too, forgot that she was a lady, and nestled against him as any child might have done.

"Now tell me," he whispered—they spoke softly all the time—"why did you come here, Anne?"

It was the first time he had addressed her without a title.

"I do not know," she answered. "I—my room is over there, you know. I couldn't sleep. I was thinking about the Lady Jehanne and her lover the Baron de Crais—about you, Sir Philip."

"The pause between the 'Sir' and 'Philip' was a long one, which sweetened the name in his ears as she continued, 'I heard a sound and I thought it might be his ghost. So I came—I hurried too. I had no time to dress.'"

"Were you not afraid?"

"The marquis says the de Rohans are never afraid. I didn't like it, but

I came on tiptoe, and then I saw something black outside on the balcony and I walked over there. 'I was a little afraid, I think, perhaps because I am part American,' she added naively.

"Americans are never afraid, either," interrupted Grafton promptly.

"Well, anyway, I saw it was you and I was not afraid any more. And I watched you stand and look, and then I saw you get over the wall, and then I was fearfully afraid—for you, Philip. I thought you might be killed. I slipped out and caught hold of you, you came back, and now we are here—together."

There was a long pause. She slipped her arm about his neck and held him as if she feared again that he might fall. He scarcely knew what to say, so he held her close and kept silent until she spoke once more, drawing herself away from him a little as she did so. "I don't think knights carry their ladies around like this, do they? I don't think it's quite proper, is it? But these stones are so cold, and I forgot my slippers, I was so anxious. Is it all right, Sir Philip?"

She wriggled her pretty toes as she anxiously sought for reassurance from her admirer and companion. "Preparé? Of course, and where is Josette?" he answered, glad to get back to the form if not the spirit of the play.

"Asleep," she answered, "the great stupid! She doesn't care whether there are any knights in the world or not. But what are you doing here? You have not told me yet."

"I—I thought I'd try—the tower, you know—the wall—to go down."

"Yes, and was it for me?"

For the life of him he could not lie to this confiding and innocent little girl.

"Lady Anne," he whispered, "it was for—"

But he did not seem to be able to tell her the truth either.

"Yes, Sir Philip, it was for—"

"For freedom then!" he said desperately.

"Oh! she quivered, 'and you were going to leave me?'"

(To be Continued.)

Disapproval of the Dust Spray.

Many of the Illinois orchardists do not approve of dust spraying for fungous troubles. Some time ago one of the speakers before the State Horticultural society voiced the objection thus: "I think that the wise man, if he happens to be a fruit grower, will keep away from the dust spray until the experiment station has settled the question, and if there are any who have lingering ideas in their minds that there are some merits in the dust spray I would advise them to wait awhile until the thing has been settled and not waste any money on materials and spraying machines, but to stick to the thing that we know is good; and when these other things are a success we can invest in them." It is suggested by some of the fruit growers that in the compounding of the dust spray the chemical property which in the liquid is effective against fungus is neutralized or in some way changed. On the other hand, one of the large orchardists of southern Illinois announces his satisfaction in the use of the dust spray.

CORN MILLERS ARE HOPEFUL

High Price of Wheat Will Increase the Consumption of Meal.

Kansas City, Aug. 31.—Corn millers from Illinois, Iowa, Missouri and Kansas held a meeting here Tuesday. H. S. Kennedy of Chicago, ex-secretary of the National Federation of Millers; C. W. Mann of Chicago and Frank Westclocher of Springfield, Ill., wholesale corn millers, were among those who came to Kansas City to attend the meeting. "The corn millers have no distinct organization," said Mr. Kennedy, when he was asked the purpose of the meeting. "We have come here to talk over the business situation and the crop conditions. Corn is so high-priced and has been for so long that the millers of that cereal have made nothing out of it. Now, however, we believe that the high prices of wheat will bring about a greater consumption of corn, especially among the laboring classes."

HOPKINS AIDS A RAILWAY PLAN

Senator Gets Creditors to Accept New Paper in Indiana Case.

Portland, Ind., Aug. 31.—Senator Albert J. Hopkins of Illinois presented to creditors of the Cincinnati, Bluffton & Chicago railroad a plan for taking the railroad out of the hands of the receiver. At the solicitation of the senator all notes and bonds against the road were relinquished by the creditors and these are to be replaced by new paper, putting the affairs of the railroad in such shape that an extension can be made at once from Bluffton to Huntington. Senator Hopkins explained to the creditors that $250,000 had been obtained by him in Chicago to make the extension and that he had more money at his disposal when a further extension was agreed on. Eastern creditors have made all the concessions asked by Senator Hopkins and the completion of the road seems assured.

CRASH CATCHES 100 PUPILS

Rural Graduates Tumble Before the Camera When Platform Breaks.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 31.—While 100 graduates of the rural schools of Sangamon county were posing for a class picture in the courthouse square the platform on which they were seated gave way and all fell to the stone walk. In the wild scramble that followed several of the pupils were slightly injured. The graduating exercises were held in Chatterton's opera house. Charles Knudson of Berlin was the valedictorian and Bertina Meyer and Mary Owen divided second honors. Judge Owen P. Thompson delivered the principal address.

Russia Will Not Change Law.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 31.—While Russia has not yet rejected the proposal of the United States government for negotiations looking to the unrestricted recognition of American passports, it is practically certain that she will decline on the ground that it entails a complete change in the laws in so far as they affect the Jews.

Ruse to Save Property.

Hinton, W. Va., Aug. 31.—By sending to her house for a pair of imaginary rifles, Mrs. D. Linn Gooch so frightened six commissioners who went to appraise a gift of her summer home for a bridge approach that they beat a hasty retreat.

INHERITED SCROFULA

When a child I had a very severe attack of Diphtheria, which came near proving fatal. Upon recovery the glands of the neck were very much enlarged, and after the free use of iodine, the right one was reduced to its normal size, but the left one continued to grow—very slowly at first, until it was about the size of a goose egg, which began to press on the windpipe, causing difficult breathing, and became very painful. An incision was made and a large quantity of pus discharged. The gland was removed, or as much as could with safety be taken out. For ten years I wore a little piece of cloth about an inch long in my neck to keep the place open. During this time I had to have it cut open by the doctor every time I took cold or the opening clogged. In the Spring or early Summer of 1884 I was persuaded by my wife to use S. S. S., which I did, strictly in accordance with directions. I took twenty-six large bottles, and was entirely cured, for I have not suffered since that time. B. S. RAGLAND, Royal Bag Mfg. Co., Charleston, S. C.

There's a Vast Difference Between Printing . . .

..... AND

Good Printing

YOUR printed matter makes its impression upon people to whom it goes.

If it is poor printing it makes a poor impression. Good printing, like the best of anything, has a commercial value and is well worth the money it costs.

We Do Good Printing

Do not confound it with CHEAP printing. It is not.

We are in peaceable possession of one of the largest and best equipped print shops in the state, with every facility for turning out high grade work and run under the guiding hand of a man who 'knows how.'

We give your printed matter a tone and individuality which creates a favorable impression for you

... AS TO PRICES ...

We are always pleased to bid against any one else and whenever you find another fellow, who can give you the service we offer at a lower price, we are fair enough to say, give him the preference.

Nothing too small to receive attention.

No job too large to phase us.

May we 'show you?'

WEEK IN ST. LOUIS.

HOW TO SPEND SIX DAYS TO BEST ADVANTAGE.

Suggestions Offered by Chicago Evening Post Writer Will Save Time, Money and Regrets—Gives Interesting Itinerary.

A writer in the Chicago Evening Post, "L. M. McC.", offers the following suggestions on spending a week at the World's Fair to best advantage. He says:

Rooms at $1.25 and $1.50 a day, with breakfast, are abundant. When landing at the union station, if undecided about location, go at once to the bureau of information in the station, where lists of rooming-houses and small hotels may be had. Choose a place near the grounds if possible. If in walking distance so much the better, as one may be independent of crowded cars and save car fares.

It is best to have breakfast at the boarding-house or near by, and depend on the restaurants of the Exposition for luncheon and dinner. I have yet to hear of a case of extortion, and the restaurants in the grounds are interesting if one chooses wisely.

Just a word about clothes. The wise woman will wear a light-weight walking suit, with dark waist—as pretty as she chooses in neckwear—and the man will have a light-weight coat and get rid of a heavy vest. White shirtwaists are a joy to womankind, but by mid-day they lose their freshness and at night they are distressing. A silk shirtwaist suit is not warm and just the thing.

MONDAY—Get a bird's-eye view. Make it an outdoor day. Take a map of the grounds and get your bearings. Take the Intramural train at Station 1, or at Station 17, the terminus, and ride all the way around, keeping both eyes wide open for points of interest noted on the map. Leaving the Intramural after the round trip, walk toward the Grand Basin and Cascade Fountains, identifying the buildings along the way, drinking in the beauty, resting near the music pavilion to hear one or two numbers, studying the Louisiana monument and finally climbing the Colonnade of States.

Statuary has greeted one on every side. The artists' names are conspicuous and no time is lost in taking this walk leisurely. From the Colonnade of States, with a map in hand, one may pick out the large buildings and get enduring impressions of the grandeur of the Exposition as a whole.

A return walk may be made to the right past the German building to the Sunken garden and the Impending Government building. But by all means stay out of doors one day. Take supper out of doors and linger around the Grand Basin while the lights are being turned on. Choose a place near a band stand and after dark take to the Pike and keep out of doors.

TUESDAY—If one is a lover of art devote the early hours to the galleries. Take the Intramural to Art Palace station. Make up your mind that you can't see it all and spend this morning in the east pavilion—Sweden, Germany, Holland, Canada, Austria. At noon go out of doors and turn to the left. Take lunch on some pleasant porch along the way—a cup of tea in Japan or Ceylon. Follow the water ways to the Music pavilion and flower beds and the Peace monument. If your tastes so incline, walk through Machinery and Transportation buildings and perhaps the Electricity building.

Spent the evening on the Pike. WEDNESDAY—Enter the grounds at the Administration entrance, or via the Intramural. Visit the Austrian house for art and arts craft, the finest display of its kind on the grounds; Holland house, a reproduction of an old Dutch house, with a copy of Rembrandt's "Night Watch"; Sweden, a modest establishment of a hunting club; Great Britain, with its old English garden and trimmed shrubbery, and rooms illustrating different periods of English furnishing; Belgium, China, Cuba, Brazil, Nicaragua, Siam and Mexico and the extremely interesting exhibit of Belgium. France lies just across the way—a reproduction of the Grand Trianon and the Garden of Versailles—and the little Italian temple crowns a hilltop. Here in a group is enough to occupy all day. The United States life-saving exhibit, the Ferris wheel, the Forestry and Fish and Game buildings are in the same locality.

THURSDAY—Go direct to the Fine Arts Palace and see Great Britain and the United States pavilion. When weary leave the Art Palace, walk to the right, lunch at one of the out-of-door cafes, if you can afford it, in Germany. Then visit the Palace of Charlottenburg and spend the rest of the day in the Education, Mines and Government buildings. Spend the evening on the Pike or in the Illuminated Palace of Fine Arts.

FRIDAY—Enter the Varied Industries building and pass by degrees through the Manufactures and Liberal Arts buildings, and the rest of the day on the Terrace of the States.

SATURDAY—Make a final visit to the Art Palace, West pavilion, France and Sculpture court. Take the Intramural to the Horticulture and Agricultural buildings, Jerusalem, the Door camp or the Philippines. The Indian schools are extremely interesting and well worth while. Of course when near the Illinois building one should register.

Personal taste naturally governs the sightseeing and some not caring to grasp the whole would map out just the things of most interest to them.

Typhoid From Shellfish. Shellfish were responsible for nine cases of typhoid fever in London last year.

A Harmony in Horn. This curious table has a top of wood, but the legs and nearly every article upon it excepting the cigars and pencils are made of horns. In the vicinity of Livingston, Mont., were formerly ranges where thousands of elk grazed. The elk sheds its horns regularly, and in many places hundreds of antlers have been picked up on a small area of ground. A mechanic in Livingston conceived the idea of making the horns into various articles of use, and the table represents one of his ideas.

The legs are made of one pair of antlers. Upon the table are cigar holders, jacketstand, pen holder, ash tray and several other useful and ornamental articles, and all are composed of the horns except the ash tray and jacketstand, which were made from a part of an elk's hoof. Not only tables but chairs and other kinds of furniture are made of horn framework, and a house in the city is surrounded by an elk horn fence.—New York Herald.

Klondike Mosquitoes. The Klondike mosquito is said to be the worst on earth, but here comes a Siberian traveler, Mr. Dobble, who insists that the venomous mid-Asian variety is hard to beat. Residents along the line of the Siberian road never seem to stray abroad without enveloping their hands and faces in thick green veils.

To Explore Australian Desert. The Australian government has organized an expedition under Capt. Barclay to explore the region, comprising 50,000 square miles, between Eyre lake and the western boundary of Queensland. It is a desert of the worst type, which has cost the lives of several explorers.

Cuckoo and Germany's Superstition. The cuckoo plays an important part in German superstition. If an old woman wants to know how many years she has to live, or a young girl when she is to be married, all she has to do is to go into the woods on May day and listen for the cuckoo. The number of times it says is the answer.

ENROLL NOW

September 6 is the date set for the opening of the Southern Wisconsin Business College.

While we enroll students at any time, still there are advantages presented to those who

START NOW.

Our system of business education is beyond all question of doubt the most comprehensive and thorough now in use.

ACTUAL PRACTICE

in the transaction of real business, the thorough grounding of fundamental principles, which in turn are elucidated, place the graduate in a position to handle business intelligently.

AS TO POSITIONS

Every graduate who can qualify will secure work. There is a demand far in excess of the supply for thoroughly competent help. While we do not pretend to say that it is but a step from our school room to high positions, we DO say that with our system as a ground-work the rise to eminence is much more rapid. Establish your future upon a firm foundation so that when it assumes gigantic proportions it will not totter with its own weight.

GOLDEN EAGLE CLOTHING HOUSE

A Sweeping Reduction Sale

Advices received from Mr. Bailey, who is now in New York buying our fall goods, make it imperative that we create a great deal of room for new goods. In order to be ready for new goods we have decided to sacrifice profits for room and to do so we place on sale the following lines at prices which are made to give us room. These goods, bought for cash, were originally quoted at bargain prices which are now cut to cost and far below cost.

Do Not Allow This Opportunity to Go By.

Batiste and Organdies
